Planning for Your Child’s Future

When a worker is severely injured or killed on the job, it doesn't just affect them – it affects their entire family. Thinking about the future is put off, and when the time comes, the cost of higher education can be well out of reach.

That's where Kids' Chance can help. Our Planning for the Future initiative is designed to identify potential scholarship applicants, especially those who are not yet of college age.

We collect and maintain their contact information so we can reach out when the time comes to consider options for higher education. We then connect these students to the appropriate Kids' Chance state organization to begin the scholarship application process.

If you are the parent or guardian of a child who may qualify, complete this card and return it to Kids' Chance of America. We're here to help your child achieve their educational dreams and succeed in creating a bright and productive future.
